The Torridon Introduces The All-Inclusive Escape

Scotland's most northerly five-star resort, The Torridon, has launched a luxury all-inclusive three-day escape where everything is included in response to those keen to manage their stay and enjoy their time without having to worry about extras racking up on the bill.

According to travel agency, Travel Counsellors, all-inclusive stays are showing a rise in popularity in 2023 with 26% of worldwide travellers booking an all-inclusive trip compared to 20% in 2019. In addition, a trend for more luxurious offerings in smaller resorts is on the increase, where guests do not have to worry about hidden extras upon checkout.

Dan Rose-Bristow, owner of The Torridon says: "We have made it really simple to enjoy everything The Torridon has to offer – fine dining, exquisite drinks and a variety of experiences are all included. The off-season at The Torridon is when we turn it on – and this three-day experience offers it all without the added worry of additional expenses."

Set in 58-acres of breathtaking landscapes at the end of a magnificent sea loch in the Scottish Highlands, The Torridon is surrounded by mountains and munros, just waiting to be explored.

The three-day all-inclusive retreat combines bed and breakfast accommodation in a deluxe bedroom in the Hotel with all meals in the hotel's two restaurants, 1887 and Bo & Muc brasserie, as well as unlimited house drinks, Afternoon Tea and outdoor activities that really showcase the magical location of the resort.

At The Torridon, the colder months are a spectacle where nature is still and mountain tops are glistening. Outdoor activities include free bike hire for a day to take in the many paths surrounding the hotel, as well as a guided walk with one of the Torridon Outdoors team in the surrounding hills.

Redefining the boundaries between luxury and exploration, the all-inclusive experience at The Torridon is the ideal getaway for those seeking relaxation or thrilling escapades in the stunning Highlands - with the added benefit of being able to manage their spend.

Available from November 2023 to March 2024, the experience starts from £2,890 for three nights for two people and includes deluxe room accommodation in the Hotel, breakfast, lunch and dinners every day, unlimited house drinks, a Torridon Afternoon Tea, bike hire for a day and guided walk with Torridon Outdoors.
